Get A Grip On Your Gadgets With Mobigrip

Kenyatta D. Pious

Men are often accused of not de-cluttering their space (whether at home, work, or the close-range personal space of pockets etc.) Enter Mobigrip, a new practical accessory for handheld electronics designed to keep them safe from slipping out of hands. Mobigrip gives power back to the fingers and lessens the concern of having a favorite gadget or toy (men are still kids at heart) from slipping and potentially breaking.

How does it work? Glad you asked - - there isn't some difficult application process or huge box with a large booklet to deconstruct. Mobigrip is an adhesive disc with an elastic finger loop that attaches easily to all cell phones (as well as digital cameras and portable gaming devices) to keep portable electronics securely connected to their users. Sound simple? It is! Mobigrip can also be customized with various custom-designed discs.

Even more impressive is the affordable price point of $7.95- $9.95 each, depending on design - - a practical gadget aid that can ultimately save the men in your life hundreds of dollars in broken or replacement devices.
